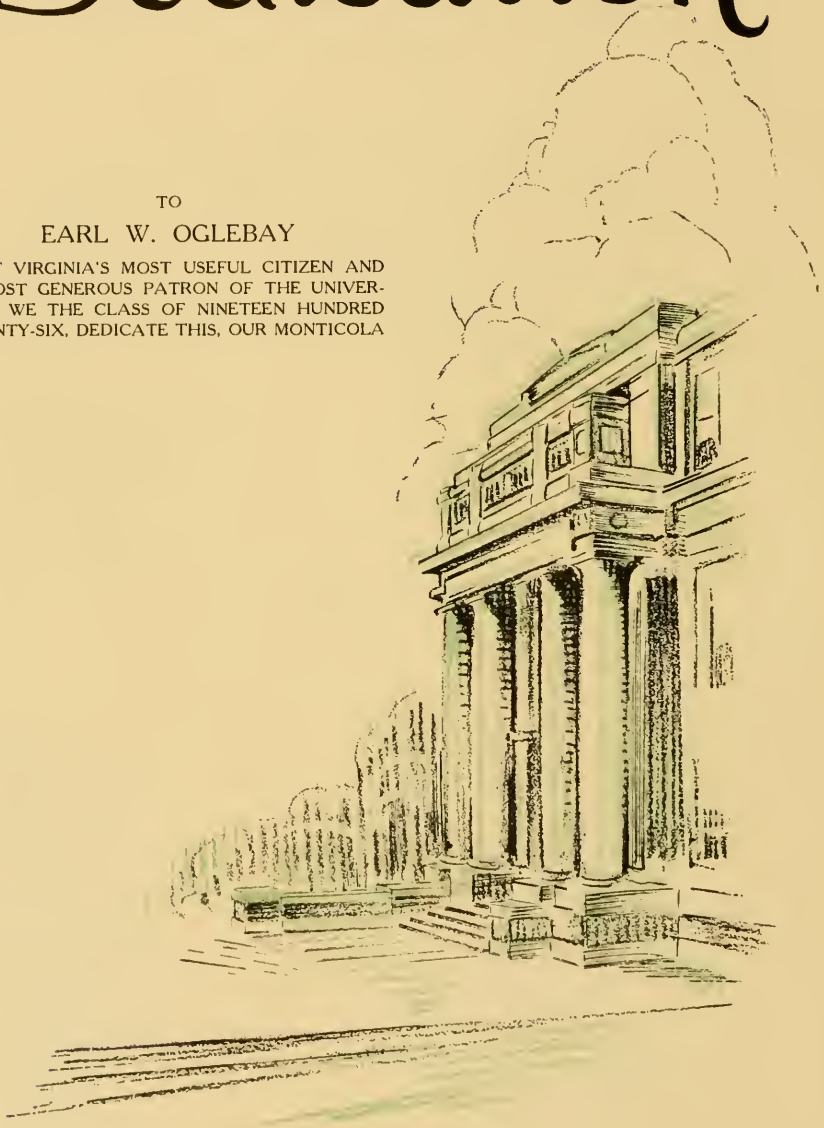
Dedication

TO

EARL W. OGLEBAY

WEST VIRGINIA'S MOST USEFUL CITIZEN AND A MOST GENEROUS PATRON OF THE UNIVERSITY, WE THE CLASS OF NINETEEN HUNDRED TWENTY-SIX, DEDICATE THIS, OUR MONTICOLA



E. W. Oglebay

ABOUT HIM

Waddington Farm basking in the sunshine among the hills of Ohio County is one of the gems among the myriad beauty spots of West Virginia. This farm is the creature of Mr. Earl W. Oglebay, who makes his home upon it and finds in its quiet and beauty his chief delight.

While Mr. Oglebay is a farmer and ruralist by nature, the energies of his life have been chiefly devoted not to the farm but to business activities. In his young manhood he was associated with his father in the wholesale grocery business and carried a sample kit and order book into many of the older towns of the state. Later the Oglebays went into the iron and steel business. In this business they prospered conspicuously, and through it young Earl became an associate of the elder Rockefeller, Mark Hanna, President McKinley, Frederick T. Gates, and other "captains of industry."

For some years Mr. Oglebay spent most of his time in Cleveland but later his interests in his native state and the community where Mrs. Oglebay had spent her girlhood days revived and West Virginia once more came to occupy the "home" place in his heart.

In 1910 Governor Glasscock entreated him to accept a place on the State Board of Regents which was responsible for the scholastic affairs of all the educational institutions of the state. This position he modestly accepted, chiefly because of his interest in agricultural education. Though offering his resignation frequently, he is still retained on that important directorate which is now called the State Board of Education. His term of service on this Board has the distinction of being the longest in the history of the Board. This service has been characterized by its unselfishness, efficiency, lofty ideals, sound judgment, foresight, and ready grasp of the many problems involved. Never has any state been more truly debtor to any individual for his contribution to its welfare than is West Virginia to Earl W. Oglebay, member of the State Board of Education.

Only he knows how frequently in these fifteen years of membership on this Board he has been called upon to lay aside important business affairs of a personal kind to give his time and thought to the problems of the educational institutions of this state, but his colleagues know how ungrudgingly every such sacrifice was made.

Mr. Oglebay has consistently declined political office and public honors of every kind but when America entered into the great world war and the nation called upon every patriot for his best, he accepted the appointment of Food Administrator tendered him by Herbert Hoover, National Food Administrator, on the recommendation of our War Governor, The Honorable John J. Cornwell. In this office his genius for organization manifested itself in an efficiency of service which promptly put West Virginia in the top group of the states of the Union in that service. As Food Administrator he not only served without pay but appropriated generous amounts of his money to the needs of the work.

In recognition of his splendid services on the State Board of Education and as State Food Administrator, and in recognition of his contribution to the cause of better farming and in appreciation of his worth as a man, he was officially designated by the Committee of The National Exposition at San Francisco as West Virginia's "Most Useful Citizen," and so on behalf of the editorial staff of the Monticola of 1926, and on behalf of the West Virginia University, and on behalf of the people of our great state, we dedicate this volume of the Monticola to

WEST VIRGINIA'S MOST USEFUL CITIZEN

EARL W. OGLEBAY

Foreword

THE MONTICOLAS OF THE PAST HAVE IN A STRIKING WAY REFLECTED THE GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT OF OUR UNIVERSITY. IF THE NINETEEN TWENTY-SIX MONTICOLA ADEQUATELY REPRESENTS THE WEST VIRGINIA UNIVERSITY OF TODAY, BOTH IN SPIRIT AND IN FACT, AND IF IN ADDITION IT IS ABLE, RATHER BY ITS ATTEMPT THAN BY ITS SUCCESS, TO SERVE AS SOME INSPIRATION TO SUCCEEDING STAFFS, IT WILL QUITE FULLY HAVE FULFILLED ITS PURPOSE.

And I think as I ponder upon you
Oh, scenes of my college days.

The light streams out from old Woodburn
Across the Circle dim

The breeze softly sways the old tree tops
As the moonbeams silver each limb.

An owl from his perch in the Sycamore
Sends out his monotonous drone

While the sweetest of all springs perfumes
Blend with the South Winds moan.

The mists rising up from the river
Enshroud each stately hall

With a nebulous, veil like mantle
That silently obliterates all.

Forever and aye must I praise you
My Alma Mater always.

Who said blond men were the most attractive?

KENDALL H. KEENEY
Ravenswood

A man can do what ever he thinks he can.

FRANCES ZIMMERMAN
Bluefield

We think of her in terms of wit, speak of her in terms of ability, and remember her in terms of honor.

PERCY WADE BRIGHT
Sutton

Fame will add another shade to his name.

LEAH NALE
Morgantown

It's unfair for one girl to be the owner of such quantities of charm!

PHILIP PFLEGER
Chicago, Ill.

Strength of mind and muscle and will is a gentleman's goal.

FLORENCE LAKIN
Charlseton

'Lofty' indeed when it comes to a high old time and a good sport.

CHARLES F. GORE
Charleston

He's a brilliant man—at least, he's clever of speech and smart of dress.

VIRGINIA REAY
Morgantown

She's a 'Reay' of light in the dark mystery of the secret of charm.

JAMES P. GRAHAM
Fairmont

I believe that life should be well seasoned with the spice, good time!

MARY EVERLY BERRY
Morgantown

She possesses graciousness.

Dare me to fly high and I will! Dare me to fly higher and I'll do that too!

ADELE BIGELOW
Washington

"Fine art is that in which the head, the heart, and the hand go together."

GLEN C. WEBER
St. Mary's

The fates have much in store for him.

HAYWARD PHILLIPS
Hall

His heart if not his features has been modelled after the Great Stone Face of Hawthorne fame.

IDA NALE
Morgantown

Dare her and she'll do it!

JOSEPH NEILL.
Greensboro, Pa.

He estimates all things in heaping measures.

LYDIA DEAL
Elkins

"When you see such hair, be careful sire"—Eliot.

MELVIN W. NAYLOR
Elm Grove

Dignity lends the lure to some men that a red cheek adds to an apple.

ELSIE JONES
Morgantown

One portion of a double personality but a complete mental unit for all that!

DAVID A. WATKINS
Buckhannon

He believes in soothing syrup—at present in connection with duty; in the future in connection with pain.

EMMA RIDGWAY
Ridgway

She aims for happiness!

HOWARD CAPLAN
Clarksburg

He caps the climax!

GLADYS FALKENSTEIN
Terra Alta

She plays queen of hearts very gracefully.

The meadow of his life has both wet places and sunny slopes.

HAROLD KLOSTERMEYER
Charleston

"Diligence is the mother of good fortune"—Cervantes.

VIRGINIA BOTTOME
Moundsville

Dark, superbly fair.

Uniontown, Pa.

A wit of the Touchstone, Harold Lloyd class.

Huntington

There have been many famous Meads. Here's another.

CLAY V. MILLER
Grafton

All words, all events are clay for him to be molded into the desired shape.

ELEANOR BAUER
Moundsville

We have found much treasure in this one small Bauer.

HARRY B. LAMBERT
Parsons

Not so staid as his birthplace would suggest.

LAURENCE F. EDWARDS
Charleston

A touch of the wanderlust, a flash of fair visions have given us an interesting man.

MARY HENSELL
Morgantown

Don't you know her? Why she's lovely!

SOPHOMORES

Sophomore Class History

OFFICERS

President	Fred Jennewine
Vice-President	Hillis Townsend
Secretary	Julia Bates Welch
Treasurer	John Faulconer
Historian	Mose Boiarsky

Could the poet Burns have been present on Monday, September seventeen, nineteen hundred twenty-three, to view the matriculation of the Class of '27, he might have used, as apropos in describing the members,

> Wee, cowrin, timorous freshie,
> O, what a panic's in thy breastie.

But, with the passing of a few weeks, the Class had become an integral part of the University. William Savage was President; Julian Murrin, Vice-President; Jessie Cunningham, Secretary; Mariam Stultz, Treasurer; Leroy Shriver, Cheer Leader, and Mose Boiarsky, Historian.

The work of the Class during its freshman year is, indeed, meritorious: its athletes gained distinction in being the first undefeated freshman team in the annals of the University; its members successfully participated in the first push-ball contest held here; its members acted as aids to the upperclassmen in achieving their successes in dramatics, in news work, and the various campus activities.

"Tempus fugit," and so, we returned in September, nineteen hundred twenty-four, as sophomores, bequeathing to our campus successors the privilege of being "campus ruled;" and we, having tasted the essence thereof and having succumbed to its spirit, determined definitely to see that the newcomers should comport themselves in a manner befitting a member of the freshman class. Not only in maintaining the traditions has the Class of '27 gained eminence; its members have animated the very life of all activities and has thereby contributed its share for success.

Thus, possessed of true mountaineer faith, and conscious of our obligations to our University and to our State, the members of the Class of '27 are "carrying on" in its mission to glorify West Virginia University.

Freshmen Class History

Treasurer	Paul Larimar
Secretary	Dorothy Lee Hammit
Cheer Leader	John L. Wade
Historian	J. P. Paine

In accordance with a custom as old as the hills, the history of a freshman class is once more to be written in the annals of Time. The hand of time is omnipotent. It requires that the smallest detail in life must be recorded in some one way or another. This may be regarded as an unavoidable law of nature, and, considering the intrinsic value of history, it is well that it is unavoidable. The value of the history of the Class of '28 remains to be proven, yet it is recorded with the fond hopes for the success of its members.

The sixty-eighth session of West Virginia University opened on Monday, September fifteenth in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and twenty-four. During the three day period allowed for registration nearly eight hundred students enrolled in the freshman class. Numerous were the difficulties experienced in matriculating, and many were the hopes that the system used for registering students, would be abandoned into infinity.

The evening of October eleventh is epochal, in that the Class of '28 held its first meeting. Sheltered by the traditional walls of Commencement Hall, the Class, under the guidance of Hardin Harmer, President of the Student Body, elected its officers. At this time, also, the yearlings were duly instructed and initiated into the realms of "freshmanhood." The true significance of the freshman rules was further impressed by a premeditated attack of sophomores after the meeting.

On Saturday, November the first, the annual freshman-sophomore class fight was held in the form of a push ball contest. It was a real fight from start to finish, and many were the yells that resounded fiercely against the walls of the new stadium. Although a number of freshmen were injured during the progress of the fight, the sophomores were finally overcome and the ball was pushed to victory. This, however, was not the only fame achieved by the freshmen, for in football and basketball and exceptionally fine record was established, giving much promise of future material for the varsity.

As the end of the scholastic year draws near, we of the Class of '28, pledge anew our honor to West Virginia University. And, though some of us may fall by the wayside in the life to come, we will always hold with sacred reverence the days spent within the realms of this grand old institution.

The Historian.

SOCIETY NOTES

PAN-HELLENICS

Among the most popular of the University dances given during the year were a series of Pan-Hellenics sponsored by the Inter-Fraternity Council. The first one inaugurated the formal social activities of the year and was held in the Armony November 7. The Carson-Miller orchestra played a program of twelve dances. The hours were from 8 until 11:30. The Armory was decorated very attractively by Turner, the local decorator. The second of these dances was held on March 20, and the third on May 22. Both were formal and with formal hours. Congratulations for the success of these dances are due to the committee, composed of Hale Posten, J. Harper Meredith and E. F. McKee.

FALL HOP

The members of the Reserve Officers Training Corps held a formal dance Saturday, November 22, in the Armory. The hours were from 8 until 11:30. Music for the dance was furnished by Carson Howard's West Virginia Players. Buffet refreshments were served during the evening. Chaperons for the evening included the Staff Officers and their wives.

TORCH AND SERPENT

Featured by wierd and mysterious decorations, the Sophomore Honorary society, Torch and Serpent, held its formal dance on Friday night, December 12, in the Armory. Red and black the colors of the society, were used and the emblem of the organization, skull and cross bones was hanging from the wall, illuminated with red and green lights. Programs were minature badges of the society, the coffin.

Another feature of the dance was the music, which was furnished by two orchestras, Bill Shinn's of Clarksburg, and Willhyde's West Virginia Collegians. The hours were formal, and during a short intermission a two course luncheon was served by the Boston caterers. Guests at the dance were the Varsity football squad. The committee in charge of the dance was composed of Charles M. Love Jr., A. B. C. Bray Jr., Harry Byers and Edwin J. McCarnes.

SENIOR DANCE

On March 28, the annual Senior dance was held in the Armory, the program of dances being supplied by Willhyde's orchestra between the hours of 8 and 11:30. Punch and light refreshments were served during the evening. The hall had been attractively decorated for the occasion by Turner. A large number were in attendance at the dance which proved to be one of the most successful of the year.

The committee in charge of arrangements included: Harrison Conoway, chairman; Ruth Johnson, Lyle Langfitt, Robert Furguson, and Martha Jolliffe.

WOMAN'S HALL PARTIES

A series of social events were held during the year by the students residing in Woman's Hall. Among these was the informal dance held Friday, December 1, in the Armory between the hours of 8 and 11:30. Howard's orchestra played for the dancers and light refreshments were served.

During the month of May, a formal dance was given by the same hostesses. The Armory was attractively decorated and a large number of couples spent an enjoyable evening dancing to the music supplied by a local orchstra. Miss Frances McCray, house president was in charge of these affairs assisted by Miss Isabel Hayes house chaperon.

BIG SISTER TEA

On September 19 the Y. W. C. A. social committee held the annual Big Sister Tea at the Woman's Hall. About six hundred guests were received during the afternoon by Ada Barnett, president of the Y. W. Jane Cox, chairman of the committee; Dean Martha Fulton and Miss Katherine Butler, Y. W. C. A. secretary.

An interesting program of music and readings was presented for the honor guests who were the new girls in the University. The favors were attractive booklets for autographs. The hours were from 3 to 5 o'clock.

VARSITY CLUB ENTERTAINS

On the night of March 13, members of the Varsity club entertained with a formal dance in the Armory honoring the new wearers of the University letters. The hall was appropriately decorated by Turner in the old gold and blue colors. Between the hours of 9 and 1, a program of dances was supplied by Willhyde's orchestra for the large throng of dancers.

The committee in charge of arrangements included Hale Posten, chairman; Douglas Bowers and Charles Dilcher.

CO-ED PROM

A "manless" dance was held February 21 in the Armory when the Co-eds of the University entertained with their third annual prom honoring the new women students of the year. Howards West Virginians played the program of dances for the large throng of dancers. One of the features of the evening was a series of dances by the Nale sisters. The committee in charge was: Pauline Weekly, Thelma Hatfield, Elizabeth Kraft, Florence Lakin, Edna Douglas, Clella Davis and Jane Sperling.

LEAP YEAR BALL

The Co-eds of the University entertained with an unique dance on Saturday, December 13, when they invited their favored young men to the Leap Year Ball in the Armory. Zeller's Orchestra of Clarksburg played the program of dances from 8 until 11:30. Very attractive decorations in keeping with the Holiday season were arranged by Turner and the Boston caterers served the refreshments. The committee in charge of the dance includd Miss Virginia Gibbons, Miss Francs McCray and Miss Virginia Price.

JUNIOR PROM

The annual Junior Prom held on April 24 was the most brilliant function of the spring season. Large numbers of out of town guests were in attendance, making this affair second only to the Military Ball in importance. Elaborate decorations and favors featured the dance. Hours were from 8:30 until 1, and the Mason-Dixon orchestra furnished the music for the dancers. The committee in charge included Paul Holland, Chairman, Veda Ely, Florence Lakin, Worth Porter and S. R. Wells.

FANCY DRESS BALL

One of the most brilliant social events of the first semester was the costume ball given January 16 in the Armory by the local chapters of Phi Kappa Psi, Kappa Alpha and Delta Tau Delta fraternities. The decorations were black and white forming a background which the many unusual and beautiful costumes made colorful. The ceiling was constructed of black and white festooning, which was draped from the center of the room in broad stripes. Black and white shaded lanterns were hung at intervals from the ceiling. The programs were of black and white leather and bore the Greek letters of the three fraternities.

Peck Mills Marylanders supplied a pleasing program of twelve dances. A buffet supper was served by local caterers during the intermission. Members of the committee in charge were: Howard Klostermyer, Kendall H. Keeney and Robert L. Watson.

The Military Ball

Coming as a fitting close to the social activities of the first semester was the Military Ball held by the members of the Reserve Officers Training Corps in the Armory on February 2nd. The large hall presented a brilliant appearance, being attractively decorated with American flags and red, white and blue streamers. Around the walls were many floor lamps with red shades, and the upper lights were shaded with our national colors.

The offices of the staff were transformed into card rooms, cleverly decorated, and throughout the evening several tables of bridge were in progress.

A delightful program of 12 dances was played from 9 to 1 o'clock by the Collegiate Imps of Carnegie Tech. Attractive leather desk sets holding scissors and paper knife were the favors presented to the young ladies. During the intermission an elaborate supper was served by the Boston Caterers.

More than two hundred couples, including many out of town visitors, attended the ball and a number of the Fraternities entertained with dinner parties preceding the dance in honor of their guests.

In the receiving line stood President and Mrs. Frank Butler Trotter, Major and Mrs. Leland S. Devore, Miss Isabel Hayes, Captain and Mrs. A. R. Whitner, Captain and Mrs. Hugh C. Gilchrist, Captain and Mrs. Howard J. Gorman and Lieutenant and Mrs. F. B. Hastie. Charles F. Dilcher and his R. O. T. C. Social Committee were in charge.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA—CHI OMEGA FORMAL

A dance of formal appointments was held in the Armory January 9, by the members of the local chapters of Kappa Kappa Gamma and Chi Omega. The colors of the two sororities were blended in a most artistic manner in the decorations. At each end of the hall the Greek letters of the organizations were shown in an illuminated panel. The ceiling was lowered by a maze of serpentine from which bright colored balloons were suspended. Peck Mills' Marylanders played an enjoyable program of dances and refreshments were served throughout the evening.

PI BETA PHI DANCE

The members of Pi Beta Phi sorority were hostesses at a formal dance held at their chapter house on January the 9th. The decorations were oriental in character. Chinese figures on a black satin ground covered the walls of the rooms used for dancing. Oriental flowers, dragons and wierd lampshades were also used in the decorations. Howard's West Virginians played for the dancers during the evening.

DELTA GAMMA PARTY

The members of Alpha Xi Chapter of Delta Gamma held their first semester formal on the evening of January 10. Confetti and paper caps were given to the guests and the rooms were cleverly decorated with colored serpentine and balloons. Willhyde's orchestra played an enjoyable program of dances and punch was served during the evening.

ALPHA XI DELTA DANCE

The local chapter of Alpha Xi Delta held a formal dance featured by clever decorations January 10 at their home on Willey Street. The rooms downstairs used for dancing were illuminated in rainbow colors, lights being placed in a border on the floors. At the end of this large rainbow was the "Pot of Gold." Howard's West Virginians played for the dancers and during intermission a supper was served.

ALPHA DELTA PI PARTY

On Saturday evening, January 10, the members of Alpha Delta Pi sorority entertained with a delightful dancing party. The hours were from 8:30 until 11:30 and the program of dances was played by Edgar Barrett and his Fairmont orchestra. Punch and buffet refreshments were served throughout the evening.

KAPPA SIGMA

Saturday evening, January 17, the Kappa Sigma entertained with a formal dance. Howard's West Virginians played the program of dances and supper was served during an intermission. The house was decorated as a scene in Holland, minature windmills with the fans constructed of mirrors being placed about the rooms. The walls were done in panels in the fraternity colors and the rooms on the second floor were arranged for cards.

DELTA KAPPA PSI

On the eve of the Christmas holidays, the members of Delta Kappa Psi entertained with a dancing party, formal in its appointments at their home on Second Street. The scheme of decorations was in harmony with both the Yuletide season and the fraternity colors. Pine and holly lined the walls of the rooms in an attractive manner. Woodford's Melody Six played a program of twelve dances.

BETA THETA PI

Mr. and Mrs. Francis X. Callahan entertained Theta Xi chapter of Beta Theta Pi fraternity with an elaborate dance December 19 at the Morgantown Country Club. Christmas decorations were used and pretty electrical effects added to the attractive appearance of the club. Walt Sears' Orchestra from Clarksburg played the program of dances between the hours of 9 and 1. During an intermission, a supper was served by the club caterers, to the guests who included a number of out of town visitors and alumni.

SIGMA CHI

On December 19 the Sigma Chi fraternity entertained with a formal dance. The decorations represented winter scenes, the walls being covered with blue and silver hanging, covered with artificial snow and there was a revolving crystal ball in the center of the chapter room. The hours were from 9 until 11:30, and a supper was served during an intermission. Willhyde's orchestra played the program for the dancers who included a number of alumni and out of town guests.

CHI DELTA PHI FORMAL

The members of Chi Delta Phi sorority entertained with a formal dance on the 9th of January at the chapter house on McLane Avenue. The rooms of the house were attractively decorated for the occasion. Willhyde's orchestra furnished the musical program. Refreshments were served during the intermission.

SIGMA NU FORMAL

The first semester party of the Sigma Nu fraternity was given January 17, at the chapter house on Walnut Street. The rooms on the second floor were converted into a parlor and dining room, while those of the lower floor were used for dancing. The Carnegie Tech Tartans played a program of twelve dances between the hours of 8 and 11:30. During the intermission a buffet luncheon was served.

THETA CHI PARTY

Alpha Kappa chapter of Theta Chi entertained with a formal dance on Friday evening, December 19, at their home on Cobun Avenue. The decorations were in keeping with the Christmas season, and music for twelve dances was furnished by the Embassy Club orchestra of Pittsburgh. In one room there was placed a large Christmas tree and during the intermission Santa Claus arrived to present each guest with a present.

PHI DELTA LAMBDA

The members of the local chapter of Phi Delta Lambda gave an Appreciation Dance honoring the Greek Letter Social Organizations on the Campus on Saturday, May 9, in the University Armory. The hours were from eight until eleven-thirty. Willhyde's Collegians played a most enjoyable program of dances.

PHI ALPHA PI

A pretty formal dance was given January 16 by the Phi Alpha Pi fraternity. The color scheme of the decorations was of black and gold and cut flowers were banked on the mantels. A local orchestra played for the dancers, and during an intermission a salad course was served. The original favors were colonial wrist boquets of rosebuds tied with the fraternity colors.

PHI KAPPA SIGMA

January 17 in the chapter house on McLane Avenue, the members of the Phi Kappa Sigma held their first semester formal. Quantities of gold and silver balloons used in the decorating and lighting effects were in alternating colors. Willhyde's orchestra was seated at one end of the large chapter room and played for the dancers during the evening. The favors were small shoe polishers which contained the dance programs.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

The local chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon entertained with a formal dance on the evening of January 16. Cook's orchestra from Fairmont played a program of twelve dances. An elaborate supper was served in the intermission. The chaperons included a number of local alumni and their friends.

ALPHA GAMMA RHO

On January 17 the members of Alpha Gamma Rho entertained with a formal dance. The dance was featured by elaborate decorations, the fraternity colors of gold and green being combined with the gold and blue of the University. Cook's orchestra of Fairmont played the program for dancing, and a supper was served during the evening.

PHI SIGMA KAPPA

The young men of the local chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa were the hosts to a number of their friends on Saturday evening, January 17. Walter Sears' orchestra of Clarksburg played the program of dances. The decorations of black and white were carried out artistically in the festooned ceilings and shaded lamps. A three course luncheon was served in the intermission.

SPHINX DANCE

Immediately preceding the Commencement festivities, the annual dance of the Sphinx, honorary junior society, was held in the Armory, and proved a fitting close to the social activities of the school year. The affair was given to honor the new men chosen by Sphinx on Link Day and was elaborate in its appointments, the hall being attractively decorated by Turner. Walt Sears' orchestra of Clarksburg played the program of dances and supper was served by a local caterer.

THETA KAPPA PSI

Saturady evening, April 18, the members of the local chapter of Theta Kappa Psi entertained at their home on Carson Street with a formal dancing party. Elaborate decorations were used. The chaperons were the professors of the Medical School and their wives. Music for twelve dances was furnished by a local orchestra, and refreshments were served throughout the evening.

SIGMA LAMBDA PI

At their home on High Street, the members of Sigma Lambda Pi entertained on Friday night, April 17, with a novelty dance. A local orchestra furnished the music, and the decorations were suggestive of Percy Marks' book, "The Plastic Age," consisting of Articles usually expected to be found in a college students room.

SIGMA DELTA PHI FORMAL

Saturday evening, April 18, at their home on University Avenue, the members of Sigma Delta Phi entertained their friends with their "Spring Formal." Gray and blue, the colors of the fraternity were used extensively in the decorations. Willhyde's Collegians played a most enjoyable program of dances. A pleasing refreshment course was served with Pakes as caterers.

SCABBARD AND BLADE

Great numbers of American flags were used to decorate the Armory for the formal dance given by the local chapter of Scabbard and Blade. Old gold and blue, and red, white and blue were combined in festooning and streamers, and a canopy was constructed over the platform used by the musicians. The honor guests were the young ladies who have been chosen as sponsors for the companies of the corps.

Howard's West Virginians played a delightful program of dances, and refreshments were served during the intermission by the Boston caterers. The committee in charge was composed of Edwin G. Smith, Hunter Reynolds, M. L. Henderson and Clyde Hall.

Forensic Record

During the past season the University Debating Teams engaged in a total of seventeen contests, most of which were staged under the now popular Open-Forum-No-Decision plan. In carrying out the schedule the West Virginia Teams traveled more than ten thousand miles, the most extensive program ever undertaken. A single question was used throughout the season: Resolved that the constitution should be so amended as to give Congress the power to overrule by a two-thirds vote decisions of the Supreme Court which declare acts of Congress unconstitutional. In every debate except the one with George Washington and the split team contest with Denver, the West Virginia debaters upheld the affirmative. A brief resume of the season follows.

The forensic season was opened on January 15, when the University of Pittsburgh was met at Pittsburgh. Bethany College was scheduled for the following night, but a severe storm and icy roads caused the meeting to be cancelled. The team on this initial campaign was composed of Harry L. Snyder, Russell Morris, and Robert T. Donley.

On January 31, the transcontinental team composed of Harry L. Snyder, Robert T. Donley, and Hugo F. Blumenberg left for its 8,000 mile tour of the United States and the Pacific Coast. Ten debates were staged during the tour, the final feature being the clash with Washburn College in the Kansas State Capitol Building in Topeka on February 16. At this event the Governor of Kansas presided while the Kansas State Supreme Court, in judging the argument, rendered its decision in favor of the Mountaineers.

On March 14, the girls team composed of Frances McCray, Mary Frances Brown, and Bertha Dwinnel met the visiting Pitt team at Morgantown. A week later on March 21, the girls of George Washington University were met at Washington, D. C., by Martha Beck, Mattie Sparks, and Wilhelmina Pownall.

A return engagement from last year was the clash with the University of North Carolina at Morgantown, March 30. The West Virginia Debaters in this contest were Harry L. Snyder, Hugo F. Blumenberg, and Robert T. Donley.

The next part of the schedule called for a short tour of the southern part of West Virginia. Marshall College was met on April 2, at Huntington. On the following night the opponent was the University of Richmond. This latter clash was staged in Charleston High School and attracted much interest in view of the fact that Governor Howard M. Gore presided. Those making the trip were John Hereford, Russell Morris, Steve Morton, and Hugo F. Blumenberg, manager.

The Forensic season was brought to a close with a very interesting split-team Oxford Style contest with representatives of the Denver University on April 14 at Morgantown. Those taking part in this final clash were Harry L. Snyder, Russell Morris and Stanley Lawson

The annual debating banquet of Delta Sigma Rho was held Saturday, April 18, at the Ortolan. Among those present were Mr. Stanley B. Houck, national president of Delta Sigma Rho, all members of the debating squad, the eight winners of the preliminaries of the state high school literary contest, and guests from the faculty.

Review of 1924 Football Season

By performing the feat of scoring 302 points to opponents' 47, by beating the Wash-Jeff Presidents 40-7 in the annual picturesque Thanksgiving fray, and by sending the Colgate Maroons back to Hamilton, N. Y., suffering a 34-2 defeat, the West Virginia Mountaineers can boast of their 1924 season as probably the most successful one on the gridiron in history.

Only one blot mars an otherwise stainless record. Jock Sutherland's Pitt Panthers paid back a two year's grudge all in one day at Forbes' Field, Pittsburgh, when they took the Morgantowners into camp by a 14-7 score.

The Spears eleven scored more than one touchdown against every team except Pitt and the Southern Generals. Washington and Lee succeeded in holding them to a single tally at Charleston, in a sea of mud, and Pitt was able to pound over two counters for their victory. Pitt, incidentally, was the only team to score more than one touchdown on the West Virginians, and Geneva and Washington and Lee were blanked.

The more than seven-to-one score superiority shown against opponents has contributed much to the University's football prestige. Eastern football critics left their desks and came to the Mountain State to see Spear's men in action in the new Stadium. Chester L. Smith, a middle west sport critic, wrote loud and long praises to Nick Nardacci in particular and the whole team in general.

If Dr. Clarence Spears was famous before the 1924 season, then he is great, famous and superb now. He has proven to the most skeptical Mountaineer fan that the Spear' system is THE system—one that wins often and consistently.

Immediately after the last game on eastern and western schedules, Dr. Spears went to Cleveland to coach the eastern team in the annual Coast-Coast game. He won his game by a nice margin and the papers throughout the country took lengthy note of his feat.

With their coveted 302 points for nine games, the Mountaineers led all eastern teams in high scoring. Rutgers, 32 points behind, was their nearest competitor. Farley, Nardacci, Bruder and Ekberg all figured in high point scoring in the east.

Of the first team, Spears has nine men returning for the 1925 season. 'Tis true that more than two Varsity men graduated, but last year's backfield was changed so many times, and so effectively, that there are several "second string" who rated along with the best.

The 1925 schedule, with its Penn State game at Morgantown, its annual Pitt and Wash-Jeff struggles, and its Boston College game at Boston, promises to be the most pretentious of all years, and the team will equal the schedule, sports critics agree.

Summary of Events

W. V. U. 21—WESLEYAN 6

Julian Murrin and Skeeter Farley made their Varsity debut in the annual Methodist encounter and they, incombination, contributed all the touchdowns. Both teams showed the usual pre-season raggedness and Doctor Spears did not uncork a single stunt for the fray.

Skeeter and Julian did all the uncorking, themselves, with Gus Ekberg and Ed Morrison doing their share. Murrin made the first touchdown of the 1924 season when he grabbed a beautiful pass from Farley and carried it over the chalk-line.

Murrin was not satisfied with his work, evidently, and early in the second quarter he picked up a fumble and raced several yards for the second tally. Farley kicked the goal for extra point.

The fourth quarter furnished all the thrills of the first. The Mountaineers came close to the Methodist goal on a series of well-directed plays and the Farley-Murrin air route accounted for the locals' final score, Farley again kicking the extra one.

Red King, the Bobcat fullback, was undoubtedly the star for the visitors. In the second quarter he literally dragged himself through the line and raced yards for a thrilling touchdown. His nervousness cost him a try for point, however.

Clarence Murrin, Julian's brother, played a prominent part in the first game, at end position in place of Capt. Fred Graham, who could not start on account of injuries received at training camp.

The game marked the opening of the new half-million dollar Stadium and fans from all parts of the state were in attendance to see the Bobcat-Mountaineer christening. Both sides of the structure were complete and the Foundation company was easily able to handle the nearly 12,000 rooters who attended.

W. V. U. 35—ALLEGHENY 6

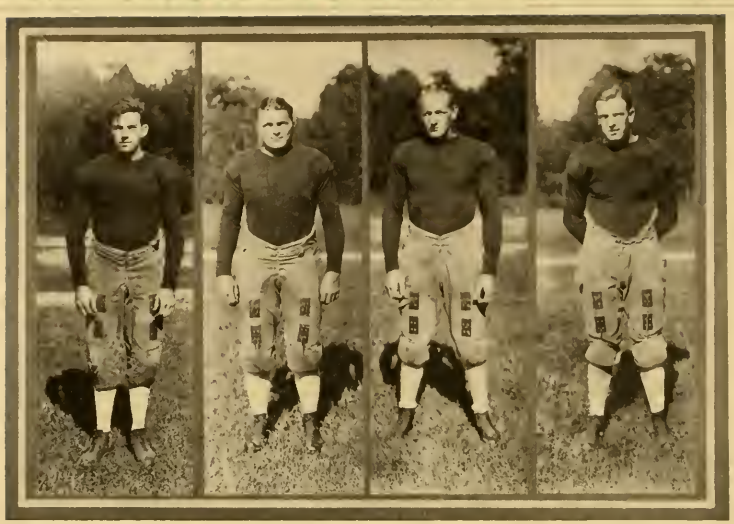
Coming to Morgantown with a reputation of gameness established in the 1923 fray, Allegheny attracted nearly as large a crowd of spectators as did the Wesleyanites. The Meadvillians had pre-season "dope" behind them and they presented a neat looking aggregation as the teams lined up for the kickoff.

Spears' team did not relent in the first quarter and when the teams exchanged positions the Morgantowners had two touchdowns to their credit. Evidently this satisfied them for Allepheny started in to real work and in a few moments they had scored a thriller, just after the second quarter began.

Skeeter Farley and "Doc" Bruder were injected into the eleven, then, and the Texas ranger and old V. M. I. star scored 3 touchdowns in 12 minutes.

If one attempted to pick a star of the game, however, Gus Ekberg stands out among the rest. His work was of the faithful, consistent variety and he could be depended upon to bring in the necessary yardage. Ekberg's defensive work was exceptional, also, and critics say his work was instrumental in holding the Pennsylvanians to such a low score.

West Virginia gained 278 yards in the scrimmage, 70 of them being gained by passes. Allegheny gained 71 yards on 15 passes. Aaron Oliker caused fans to prick up their ears for the first time when he literally grabbed the pikskin out of an opponent's hand for the final tally of the game.



PINKNEY HOWARD DILCHER DAVIS

W. V. U. 7—PITT 14

Football is a game, and the possibility of defeat is what makes a game. Jock Sutherland's Pitt Panthers took it upon themselves to turn this ever-present possibility into a reality at Forbes' Field, Pittsburgh, on Oct. 11 before 25,000 people, and they succeeded.

If Napoleon Bonaparte was surprised at Waterloo, then Mountaineer fans were chagrined at Pittsburgh for all West Virginians were expecting a victory. Students, a thousand strong, marched through the streets of Pittsburgh Saturday noon before the game, headed by the cadet band, predicting victory and Pittsburgh sport writers admitted that the Sutherlands were in for a tough scrap.

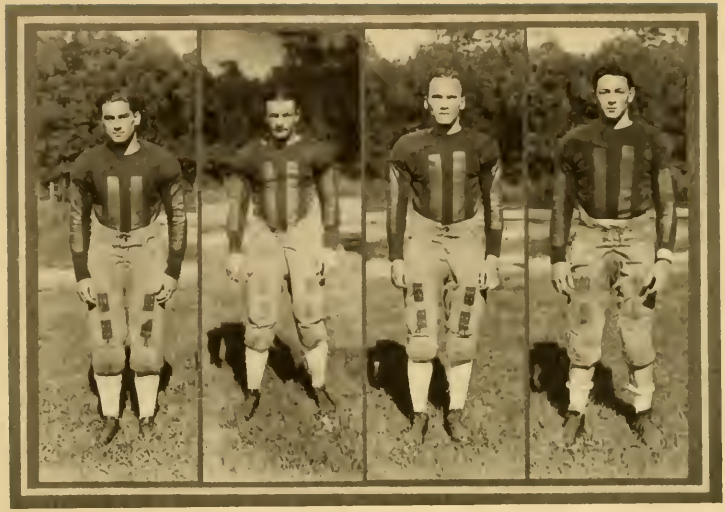
Nothing happened in the first quarter of this lamentable event to cause much worry among Mountaineer backers. Pitt succeeded in stopping our plays, but fumbles by backfield men cost us two touchdowns, after the ball had been plunged over the line.

Uneasiness auppeared in the W. V. U. stands during the second stanza, for Pitt started fighting fire with fire and they were able to complete passes around the best Morgantown defense. They opened up a running attack of their own and by sheer weight were able to keep the lighter visitors far back in their own territory.

Ollie Harris and J. Schmidt, two Pitt rookies who were playing their first Varsity game of any importance, did the trick for the Smoky City college. They tore through the weary Mountaineers for two touchdowns, one in the third and one in the fourth quarter.

All West Virginians cried out for revenge and "Wee Nick" Nardacci came through with his share by turning in a touchdown in the closing minutes. A belated Mountaineer rally, however, failed to score another one and the game ended with a Pitt victory, the first in three years.

No story of the contest would be complete without a mention of Nardacci's defense work in the closing periods of the game. He hurled a pass into the arms of Hantgartner, when he was rushed too soon, and the big Pitt back, with three men interference, started for Pitt's third tally. One by one, Nick dropped the interference and by a desperate dive, he pulled down Hartgartner on the 12-yard line. Every Pittsburgh paper praised the wee Mountaineer for his work.



J. MURRIN BRUDER PFLEGER OLIKER

W. V. U. 55—GENEVA 0

Geneva came to Morgantown one week after the Pitt fiasco and Geneva bore the brunt of a determined comeback, in which every man on the eleven played his part. They suffered a 55-0 defeat and were the first team to fail to score against the Mountaineers last season.

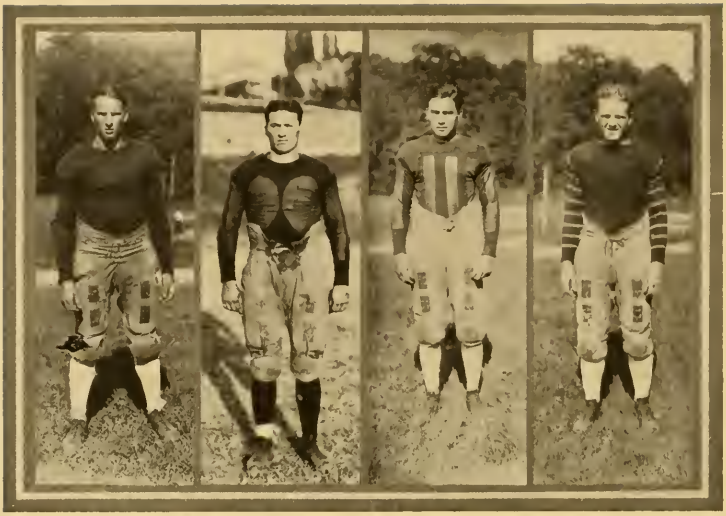
Notre Dame's four horsemen must fade into insignificance before the Ekberg, Nardacci, Farley, Bruder, Morrison quintet which performed so stubbornly during the contest. Not once did they relent in their irresistable attack and Bruder, the Texas ranger, scored three touchdowns while the crowds were urging "Get 'em Cowboy."

The Spearsmen were playing under depression of "Bo" McMillan's death, which occurred that week. Just two weeks ago, against Allegheny, the Minneapolis boy had called signals for the locals, and the players were saddened by his death. Between halves the spectators stood and paid silent tribute to one of the University's greatest athletes, while the cadet band played a military dirge.

Early in the game, after West Virginia had made three touchdowns, Geneva started a futile aerial attack which persisted until the final whistle. Time after time they would attempt long passes, only two of any consequence being completed.

Farley did his passing trick for the benefit of the visitors, and his work was indirectly responsible for four touchdowns. The Mountaineers at all times showed a consistent attack and defense, much different from that displayed at Pitt. Dr. Spears had given them a hard week of training and had succeeded in correcting many of their faults.

Charlie Dilcher, who replaced Charlie Howard as tackle, after the first game, in which Howard suffered a broken leg, showed up well in this contest and proved to the fans that he would be a reliable man at the line position.



JENNIWINE McHENRY C. MURRIN HILL

W. V. U. 13—CENTRE 6

Back in 1919 no one in West Virginia had ever heard of Centre College. The Mountaineers, then led by "Tubby" McIntire, went down to Charleston to take on a "little school" after they had succeeded in defeating Princeton and establishing a name for the Morgantown institution, and this "little school" gave them a severe drubbing.

But fate is kind! At that very game there was a boy who watched West Virginia suffer defeat. His name was Skeeter Farley and upon this same Farley came the opportunity of leading his state team to a sweet revenge over the Prayin' Colonels at New York.

And he did it! Assisted by Doc Bruder, he scored the final point of the game, winning for the Staters after the Kentuckians had led most of the way.

Covington started things in the way of scoring. His educated toe counted for a goal from the 40-yard line. Nick Nardacci and Doc Bruder then double teamed the boys from the Blue Grass region and Nick passed a pretty one over the line to Doc.

Covington's cohort, one Mr. Lemon, would not let matters stand and he kicked a goal from the 18-yard line for the Colonel's final tally. Farley went back into the game during the closing moments and his appearance caused Centre to form to prevent passes. Farley did things up right by pounding his 134 pounds of weight through the line for a touchdown, just a moment before the whistle blew.

The Mountaineers were consistently the better with passes and ground gaining, but several costly fumbles put the Blue Grassers in a position to drop their kicks between the uprights. Gustavus Ekberg played his usual heady game and his "five-yard punches" added up in the final score.

W. V. U. 71—BETHANY 6

Bruder and Farley, that irresistable, fighting, determined duet, together made more points in the Mountaineer-Bison encounter than did all the opponents of West Virginia make against them during the entire season.

The Texas ranger was in his best stride and he rolled up a count of five touchdowns and six goals after touchdowns. Skeeter Farley was not far behind with three touchdowns and three goals. Ekberg made two, besides playing his usual dependable and steady game, and Fred Graham's playing proved to the comparatively small crowd of fans that he would be in condition for the Thanksgiving game.

Few indeed were the substitutes who did not get into this game. Time after time Spears changed the lineup only to find that they were still able to work effectively.

In the last quarter Bethany opened up a peculiar aerial formation which caught the locals napping. Most of the regulars had been replaced by the youngsters, some of them in their first battle, and they were at a loss as to how to handle the intricate offense of the Bisons.

After several long, successful throws, Gehring grabbed a high one and raced across for a tally, after the Mountaineers had already made over half a hundred points.

The West Virginians purposely did not show much originality in this game. Colgate and Wash-Jeff scouts were reported in the Stadium and Spears did not take any chances. Straight football, with an occasional pass, was the only thing on the program.

W. V. U. 34—COLGATE 2

Eddie Tryon and his gang from Hamilton, N. Y., furnished the most picturesque game of the year, with the exception of the final President contest. Coming to Morgantown highly touted, the Soap Makers drew a record crowd to the new Stadium, the attendance only being surpassed by the Homecoming game.

It is generally believed among local sporting circles that the Mountaineers played a near-perfect game on that memorable day. The overwhelming defeat of W. and J. later in the season was not obtained by as perfect a system as Spears produced that day.

Nothing went wrong! There were no fumbles; no mistaken signals; every man did his part at the right time and no team could have stopped them.

Eddie Tryon, the Colgate backfield ace, was so carefully guarded that the fans did not distinguish him from the rest, although he was high score man in the east last year.

West Virginia made 21 first downs and Colgate made 1; West Virginia made 435 yards ganis and Colgate made 71; West Virginia gained 161 yards by passing and Colgate gained 28—it was a West Virginia day and the Graham-captained eleven was not to be denied.

Gus Ekberg was one of the stars of the game. He gained consistently and made two sensational spurts for a touchdown, after tearing through the heavy Maroon line. He was only brought down in both attempts by the swifter but more ineffective Tryon.

Ed Morrison's superb work at backing up the line was evident in this game and Bruder and Farley both shined brightly. The Graham, Davis, McHenry, Hill, Mahan, Dilcher and Oliker line held like the proverbial stone wall and Eddie and his gang hadn't a chance in the world.

W. V. U. 6—WASHINGTON AND LEE 0

Mountaineer guns pounded away mercilessly at the Southern fort for 57 minutes of the 60 minute battle at Charleston November 15 with no avail. Every time that the ball was within the 10-yard line of the Generals, they held and some southern gentleman would punt the pigskin far back into West Virginia territory.

At the end of 57 minutes, desperate at their failure to score, substitutions were made in an effort to run fresh men over the weary Generals. Straight and Pinkney replaced the tired and muddy Red Mahan and Ross McHenry, and Paul Stinebicker, a Wheeling product with little or no Varsity experience was hurried to the backfield.

Three times he hit the line and three times he gained. At the fourth attempt, he went over the chalk line with just 2 minutes and 10 seconds to play. The Mountaineer flag was hoisted and the game ended a few moments later, after an exchange of punts.

The Generals put up one of the most dogged defenses ever presented to a Spears eleven. Time and again the efforts of the Staters were thwarted just as the muddy ball was almost to the goal line.

Mountaineer superiority is unquestioned. They scored 18 first downs to the Southerners 2 and excelled in all points of the game. W. and L. just wouldn't let them score, and they were satisfied with that.

Doc Bruder, who is too fast for mud work, didn't get a chance in the fray and most of the honors left after Paul Stinebicker gets his share must go to Ed Morrison, whose work at backing up the line made a W. and L. touchdown as improbable as an eclipse next Thanksgiving.

W. V. U. 40—WASHINGTON AND JEFFERSON 7

Mere words cannot describe the joy, the swelling ecstacy of the annual Thanksgiving Homecoming game with the Presidents from Washington, Pa. They came, they played and they were conquered.

Whoever said that "revenge is sweet" must have predicted the W. and J.-West Virginia affair, for it was the sweetest morsel of revenge ever raised to the Mountaineers.

Just exactly a year previous to this game the Presidents marred a clean record of the Spearsmen by handing them a 7-2 defeat on the old athletic field. Bruder remembered it, but, most of all, Nick Nardacci remembered it.

Never in his four years of football has Nick played better on a gridiron. He made touchdown after touchdown and his defensive work was of the highest order. It was his playing that day that won him the "Wee Nick" title so aptly portrayed by Chester Smith.

Capt. Fred Graham, playing his last collegiate game, also made his debut a fitting one. He caught a pass in the late part of the game and ran it over for a counter.

Probably no more two consistently dependable football men ever walked off the Mountaineer field for their last time than Gus Ekberg and Phil Hill, whose crowning event was their performance in this game. Their works brought smiles to the face of Spears and his assistants and they were allowed to play until long after the result was easy to foresee.

"RED" MAHAN MAKES CAMP'S ELEVEN

Walter Everett "Red" Mahan received the third highest gridiron honor which can be conferred when he was named as third All-American right guard by the late Walter Camp, dean of football mentors in the World.

Five other Mountaineers of the 1924 team received honorable mention for their services throughout the year: Ekberg, Bruder, Nardacci, Farley and Graham.

The 1924 Mountaineer eleven boasts several men on the All-Eastern teams mentioned by sports writers throughout the country, Graham, Mahan, Hill, and the whole backfield having been named.

Mahan's name on the "team list" is added to a comparatively long list of Mountaineer celebrities who have received this rare distinction. Errett Rodgers, now assistant football coach, Varsity baseball coach and freshman basketball coach, was captain and fullback of Camp's first All-American selection in 1919. Russ Bailey, Charlie Tallman and Joe Setron have also been on his mythical teams.

THE 1924 FRESHMAN FOOTBALL SQUAD

Summary of the Freshman Season

In contrast to the undefeated Ward Lanhamites of the 1923 grid season, the Fairmont attorney did not have an elaborate success in 1924, although all stains of previous defeats were wiped out by the glorious one handed the Broaddus college aggregation in the final game.

The frosh lost four of their eight games, and tied one. They scored 91 points to their opponents 99, 59 of the latter being heaped up by Bellefonte, who played a revenge act on the plebes.

Potomac State, at Keyser, handed the fans the first warning when they held the little Mountaineers to a 13-13 tie. While their bigger brothers were being whipped in real style by Pitt, the freshmen were also being whipped by W. and J's plebes at Washington, Pa.

The Pitt freshmen, who so decisively defeated the California Normalites earlier in the season, were lucky to down the Lanham team 3-0 in a game played before the Geneva contest at Morgantown. The Morgantowners played excellent football and but for the educated toe of a Pitt plebe, the game would have ended in a draw.

Homer Martin, an old West Virginia fullback, was humbled by the freshmen when they defeated his New River school team 39-0. The game was full of good plays on the part of the freshmen, and the river boys had trouble in making a first down.

The dope bucket was kicked all to pieces when California Normal downed the freshies 18-0. Their poor showing against Pitt and the frosh's seeming improvement made a defeat appear impossible, but the Pennsylvanians were able to turn the trick.

The Washington and Lee freshmen fared little worse than their big brothers as they fell before the Little Mountaineers to a 13-6 tune.

In 1923 the freshmen defeated the Bellfonte Academians easily at Morgantown, 21-0. Bellefonte met them this year with the same blood in their eye as the Mountaineers had Thanksgiving day and the locals fell, 59-0.

Broaddus' Nussmen had to suffer the brunt of Ward Lanham's fiery exit from sport coaching circles, for the Fairmonter will be too busily engaged with his law business to coach next year. Coming to Morgantown touted as the best class "B" team in the tri-state the Philippi boys were snowed under by a 26-0 score.

In spite of the fact that four games were lost, Lanham is said to have developed some good Varsity material and Spears is counting much on Ryan, Cole, Black and a few more of the stars of the freshman squad in 1924.

With a nucleus of only three regular Varsity men around which to build a 1924-25 basketball team, Coach Francis Stadsvold came clear from Minneapolis to mould a Mountaineer quintet. Funk, Hawley and Rohrbaugh were the only men to have played more than eight Varsity games before the season started and these three men led the scoring for the year.

West Virginia fans will all agree that it was an "off year" for the tossers. It was most successful in that Pitt fell twice, and Wesleyan and W. and J. once before the Mountaineers. The season as a whole however, was unsuccessful in that the Varsity won but six games while they were losing eleven.

The Stadsvoldians scored 424 points in the 17 games while their apponents were scoring 483. The locals averaged 24.9 points to the game and opponents averaged 28.4 points.

The Mountaineers started the year right by downing the boys from Salem in an opener at Morgantown. They were still going strong when Waynesburg lost in the Ark 28-20, but fans began to admit that the Morgantowners were not as strong as they had been the previous season.

The first clear warning of the season results came when Allegheny defeated the locals 34-22 at Meadville. This was offset doubly, however, by the Gold and Blue victory over Pitt's five and no one suspected that Allegheny would come back and double their damage by taking the local quint over the coals again on their home floor.

Thus began a series of eight straight defeats which threw the Mountaineer camp into consternation. Kentucky, Washington and Lee, and Marietta all had their turn in defeating the locals by a close score, Marietta doing it twice inside of 10 days.

Grove City administered the Stadsvold proteges their worst defeat of the season in the tenth game when they scored 41 points against 17. Duquesne and West Virginia

"LEGS" HAWLEY, Captain

THE 1924-25 VARSITY BASKETBALL SQUAD

FUNK

Wesleyan wound up the eight straight loses.

When Stadsvold and his crew left for Washington, Pa., to play their annual game with the Presidents, few and far between were the local backers who even suspected a Mountaineer victory. The worm turned, however, and Captain Hawley and his gang returned with a 19-18 scalp hanging on their belts and smiles on their faces.

Another Pennsylvania team, the Grovers, thought it their duty to dampen Morgantown hopes again however, and they defeated W. V. U. 26-19. Still suffering remorse for the grid victory that Pitt had handed the Mountaineers on Oct. 11, and not with one victory over the Panther, Oliker, Hawley, Funk, Rohrbaugh and company handed the Smoky City boys another wallop, 35-25.

Of the squad of 13 Varsity tossers, Natus Rohrbaugh is generally conceded to have been the star of Francis Stadsvold's quintet. The Buckhannon captain-elect played consistently during the whole season and he was mentioned as a guard on Chester Smith's annual team selection. Funk and Hawley played their usual stellar games during the schedule, but Funk did not display the brilliant game of basketball he uncorked in the 1923-24 season.

A review of the schedule shows that the Mountaineers were undoubtedly better on their trips than at home. The Ark seems to cramp their style more than it does the visiting team's and four of the six victories were made against strong teams on their own floor.

Early in the season it appeared as if the team personnel would probably stand with J. Murrin and Funk, forwards; Hawley center; and Oliker and Rohrbaugh, guards. Unlooked for reverses, however, caused the Minneapolis attorney to do some switching around and Oliker played forward, while Clarence Murrin and Ed Morrison got their chance. The Murrin brothers shined in basketball as they did in football and for several games they played a pretty combination.

Near the end of the season Coach Stadsvold began holding Funk out of the game until near the end of the first half. The speedy forward's strategic entry often hurried the game along and Mountaineer victories were sometimes responsible for these shifts in lineup.

Although a narration of the past season does not bring any great joy to Mountaineer hearts, a prediction for next year is undoubtedly more pleasant. Rodgers'

OLIKER

ROHRBAUGH, Captain-Elect

plebes made a brilliant showing after they got to working together and the addition of Black, Ryan, "Sleepy" Glenn, Wease Ashworth and other first-year tossing celebrities will make Stadsvold have a willing and versatile crew next year.

And, it is an accepted fact that the Murrin brothers from Parkersburg, Ed Morrison and Aaron Oliker will be going at top speed in 1926. They played as rookies this year, and seemed to get better as the season progressed.

No one bit of news puts more confidence in Mountaineer fans than to know that Stadsvold will return to accept the coaching assignment next Christmas holidays. The Minneapolis mentor has won a place in the heart of all West Virginia fans and upon his departure in March he made the assertion that he would return.

"Our team wasn't quite good enough to win with the breaks against them," the attorney said and his summary tells the story of the whole season.

Marietta, for example, made hair-raising shots during both their games from back of the center mark and other defeats were due simply to bad breaks.

Funk, Hawley and Graham are the only men who played in games this year who will be lost to the squad.

The graduates from the freshman team however, will offer him some material which should develop into first string bets.

A summary of any basketball season at West Virginia would be incomplete without some mention of the facilities at the Ark, a "place where the team practices and where games are played."

Stadsvold and the "boys" cannot be blamed for the results of any season and they are to be complimented if they win any games. With a low ceiling and under frigid conditions in mid-winter the quintet suffers more inconvenience than most high schools throughout the state are forced to undergo.

To turn out a team that wins six games on a 17-game schedule under such conditions is more than satisfactory, and to win the tri-state championship as they did in 1923-24 is a truly remarkable accomplishment.

MORRISON

Freshman Basketball Record

Coach Ira E. Rodgers can boast of his 1924 freshman basketball team with just cause. The plebes, many of them who have played on varsity squads of other institutions, scored 13 wins out of a possible 17 and were going strong when the season ended.

Probably the most significant thing about the whole season is the high scores run up by the local plebes. In the complete schedule, they ran up a total of 632 points to opponents' 419, which means a game average of 37.1 points to opponents' 24.6.

The Rodgerites scored more than 30 points in 13 of their games; more than 40 points in 6 games, and they never scored less than 15 points, and that against Fairmont Normal, at Fairmont.

The highest score they made was against the Johnstown, Pa., high school when the final toss made the score stand at 61. Starting along with their bigger brothers, the Little Mountaineers scored wins against Glenville and Potomac to start the season. California Normal and the Pitt freshies sent fear to freshman supporters when they registered wins, but the frosh came back strong and registered five straight victories.

The Washington and Jefferson freshmen were shown no mercy. They fell before the Mountaineer onslaught at Washington, Pa., by a 46-7 score, and they wound up their season in Morgantown by losing again 36-16. Incidentally, the plebe Presidents made the two low scores of Mountaineer opponents.

1924 Baseball Summary and Record

The handicap of a comparatively few strong pitchers caused Coach Ira Rodgers uncounted worries in 1924 and cost the University 13 of their 20 games. With a team composed of many more veterans than the 1925 squad will boast, the Morgantown diamonders were unable to win but one game of their annual seven-game eastern trip, Lehigh being the only one to fall before the locals' prowess.

After having lost the first four openers, the Mountaineers tightened up enough to defeat Wesleyan 12-2 on their own field, but this spurt was dampened by the 6-game loss on the eastern trip. Salem paid the grudge penalty on the nine's return, and they lost a game at Morgantown, 20-3.

Pitt and West Virginia broke even and this fact was a great consolation to local fans. West Virginia won one game in Pittsburgh and one in Morgantown.

A pre-season view of the 1925 schedule does not offer much solace to the fan. With probably the most pretentious schedule the "U" has ever boasted, Coach Rodgers has the greenest squad he has ever had with which to work.

Fulton Woods' 1924 freshman baseballers won all of their four-game schedule and incidentally uncovered Skeets Farley as an infielder and Sam Lopinsky as a hurler. Both men are making strong bids for Varsity berths this year. The frosh won from Potomac State, Fairmont East Side, Monongah and Grafton high schools.

THE 1924 VARSITY TRACK SQUAD

CALLOWAY D'AIUTO DAVIS McMILLAN

1924 Track Summary

Without a great deal of fuss and pre-season predictions, Coach Art N. Smith turned out one of the most successful track teams in 1924 that the University has ever offered. Hampered with an inflow of green material and proper track facilities, the new coach succeeded in winning the tri-state championship in fine style and his pupils were able to break a half-dozen or more University records.

D'Aiuto, Calloway, Butts, Barnum, McMillan and Carl Davis were undoubtedly the stars of both field and track events. Dan D'Aiuto equalled his own 10-second record on the century dash; Calloway lowered the mile record more than five seconds; Carl Davis accomplished the feat of putting the 16-pound shot five feet further than the record; Barnum threw the discus and hammer much farther than they had previously been hurled; and "Bo" McMillan raised the broad jumping record just three inches.

All in all it was a great season. In a pre-season meet with Georgetown, where track and field is a year-round sport, the Smith proteges succeeded in holding the Washington crew to an 81-52 score, thereby gaining a great deal of eastern prestige.

A dual meet was held with Wesleyan on May 3 and the Mountaineers humbled the Methodists by a 113 2-3—21 1-3 score. Pitt fell the next week by the decisive score of 79-56, West Virginia winning 10 first places and tying for the eleventh. Bethany suffered the worst humiliation and fell before the Varsity by a 118-17 score.

West Virginia also sent men to the Penn relays at Philadelphia and to the Intercollegiates at Cambridge, Mass. A full team was also sent to the University of Pittsburgh Intercollegiates, but rain flooded the track and the meet was called off.

THE FRESHMAN TEAM

Although the University's first freshman track team played in but one meet, they snowed under the Potomac Staters and Coach Art Smith is using several of last year's men on his Varsity squad this year.

Possibilities of a winning freshman aggregation this year are bright. Track and field stars discovered and scouted in the annual 1924 high school track and field meet are registered in the University and most of them are high school record holders. Davis, from Potomac State, should go well in the distances this year and "Sleepy" Glenn, of Elkins, is looked to to furnish new freshman records in the dashes and both low and high hurdles.

Blauberg, an eastern A. C. star in the dashes, who is said to have a century dash record below the 10-second mark, should have little trouble in sweeping all opposition before him this year and he will give Dan D'Aiuto, Dick Donovan and other Varsity dash stars a run for their money next year.

1924 Wrestling Summary

WELLS, Manager

Steve Harrick, performing for the first time as Varsity wrestling coach, turned out a remarkably winning team, although his work suffered from the lack of experienced heavyweights.

The record of five wins and two losses tells nothing of the thrilling matches which were held both at home and abroad. Western Maryland, V. M. I., Penn and W. and L., twice, fell before the Harrickmen and only Iowa and the Navy were able to win.

Only four men on the squad wrestled in every meet: Al Millender, Ward Wylie, captain-elect; Captain Tony Suder and Ira Pitsenberger. Millender won five of his meets, four by the way of falls.

Captain Suder won five of his matches, four by time decisions and one by a fall. He suffered his only defeat at the hands of Smith, Navy.

Captain-elect Ward Wylie lost to both Iowa and Navy, although he won in great style in the remainder of his matches.

The season opened auspiciously when the Harrickmen blanked the Western Maryland aggregation 28-0 in the short actual working time of 15 minutes. The University won all of their matches except the 125-

V. M. I., southern champs for the past three years, fell next by a 22-8 score, only Smith and Hobensack losing their bouts in the light and heavyweight divisions, respectively.

W. and L. suffered almost as badly on their home mat, when the Mountaineers took them into camp, 16-9. Two surprises were offered in the defeats of Al Millender and Pitsenberger by their unheralded General opponents.

They pulled the revenge act at the Ark on the following Saturday night, however, and both dispatched their men in short order as the Harrickmen won, 22-5.

Wrestling under western rules and on a much smaller mat than they were used to, the Harrickmen suffered their first defeat of the season to the Iowa grappling stars at Des Moines, 22-5, in what was said to have been one of the best matches staged there in years.

The score of a 16-6 defeat over Penn doesn't begin to tell the story. Two of the matches, Captain Suder's and Al Millender's went extra periods and the Pennsylvanians offered stiff opposition in all other branches. They could not work against the stubborn offensive of the Mountaineers, however.

Uncle Sam's gobs tied the crepe on the boys as the final tussle of the season. It was the Navy's first appearance at Morgantown and the Ark was overcrowded to see their boys lose, 22-3. Experience and a superior knowledge of the wrestling art gave the Annapolis boys a clear victory.

Tennis Summary

Davey Jones and his racqueters of last spring were successful in most of their matches and predictions for this year's team were the brightest. Several embryo Tildens reported at the Armory this spring to prepare themselves for the most pretentious schedule the University offered—BUT—

The fact that there will be no courts on which to play has necessitated the cancelling of this schedule. The University is planning to lay new steam lines from the plant "over the hill" and as this work is to commence at once, it would be impossible for the tennis team to get outdoor practice. Director Stansbury, therefore, was forced to cancel his schedule.

Several of the men are practicing on private courts, however, and the 1926 team should be the best that the University has yet produced.

GOLF PROSPECTS

For the past three years there has been much undergraduate enthusiasm for a University golf team. Director Stansbury has been consulted and it is probable that such a sport will be added to the already large list next year. It is thought that the Country Club will allow the use of their course for matches with other universities and there are many golf stars in the various colleges who will furnish good material for the University's first team of "fore" yellers.

BOXING

Nick Nardacci, Lefty Leffingwell, Derby Harrison, Ed Hamrock and several other undergrads have been using the gymnasium regularly during the winter months for boxing practice. All four men have participated in exhibition matches, Harrison having won the championship at Camp Knox in 1922.

There is considerable agitation for a boxing team and lovers of the sport are looking forward to a time when a team may be in active competition. It is not thought, however, that this can be accomplished next year.

American Institute of Electrical Engineers

Founded, 1884

WEST VIRGINIA UNIVERSITY BRANCH

Established 1915

The West Virginia Branch of The American Institute of Electrical Engineers is one of the sixty-eight student branches in the United States. It was organized in 1915 under the direction of Professor V. Karapetoff of Cornell University and Professor W. E. Dickinson of West Virginia University.

The objects of the institution are the advancement of the theories and practice of Electrical Engineering and of the allied arts and sciences, the maintenance of a high professional standing among its members and the development of the individual engineer.

Fi Bater Capar

Founded in Athens, 327 B. C. by Socrates

FLOWER—Roses (Four)

COLORS—Brown or Green (According to Season)

Foreword: The exact data and circumstances under which the fraternity was founded have until the last few months, been veiled in mystery and even now the musty archives fail to give a true account of the memorable occasion. However with the expenditure of a vast amount of capital, the organization has at last uncovered what may prove to be a connecting link in the history of the organization.

The above mentioned research was conducted in Egypt, near the old Moses chapter house, and resulted in the uncovering of the tomb of brother L. H. C. P. Tut-Ank-Amen.

Thus far the discovery has given the following proofs:

(1) That Tut was pickeled when he died; therefore he was a member of the fraternity.

(2) That a likeness of the sacred bull was carved on his coffin, therefore it has been the emblem of Fi Bater Capar.

(3) That Cleopatra was the first Fi Bater girl.

With additional exploration, Fi Bater Capar hopes to have a true knowledge of their fraternity.

This has been one of the most successful years in the annals of the organization. At the beginning of the fall term a number of new men were pledged, some of whom have developed into really good material. The scholastic standing has been very satisfactory. Very little trouble has been experienced with the brothers who have a slight inclination toward alcoholic beverages. The chapter house has been well taken care of and plans for remodeling are under way. The fraternity has sponsored a number of delightful social events, dances, street car expeditions, spelling bees and the like, and it is needless to say none of the girls were bored. Fi Bater Capar is happy to announce that with graduation it will lose a lot of dead material, and will be better able to function as an organization next year.

Class Mates

School days do not last forever and when they are past memories are kept warm by the Photographs of friends and pals of the class room and campus.

Your chums should have a "Personality Portrait" of you, and you will prize theirs in return. The home folks will always cherish a portrait of "the turning point" in your life.

This studio is headquarters for the best in photographic work and the doors are open to you and your friends.

NEXT YEAR

When the school bell rings;
When the early birds roll in;
When the football dopesters are picking the team;
When fraternity rushing is in full swing.

Then you will find us even more capable than we are now of taking our place in the school activities.

PORTRAIT PHOTOGRAPHER

MORGANTOWN, W. VA.

FORMERLY OF GREENWICH VILLAGE
NEW YORK CITY

We make portraits that are true character delineations—not merely a map of ones features!

All sittings are made personally by Mr. Arch Deacon assuring the subject the utmost artistic portraiture.

Mr. Arch Deacon has studied under Carl Werntz of the Chicago Academy of Art and at the Art League of New York City. Motion picture and art direction under Jeane Boffinger of New York.

We are photographers for College and High School Annuals. Quotations and estimates gladly made.

Portraits after the New York manner at "Main Street" prices.

The

"FIFTH AVENUE"

A portrait of the high quality, finish and "chic" appearance that you would expect to get in that famous shopping district.

We put all we know into the making of this wonderful portrait. You will be proud to give it to your friends.

Extraordinary poses and extravagant hightinges without retouchings may be made for those who appreciate it at a low price on account of less work to produce it.
